Tarot Card of the Month

Seven of Cups - Wow look at all of the options! This card pops up when you have a decision to make about which direction to go in and the amazing blessing is that you have options. The not so enjoyable part about this card is that it can lead to overwhelm paralysis where all of them seem to be amazing and you just can't choose. Often with this card as well, there are some things you just cannot know yet about the factors of your decision, the caveat of "not all that glitters is gold" can be true.

Leo Full Moon

This Full Moon is at 16 degrees Leo and will be square to Uranus in Taurus and in a sextile with both Mars and Chiron. This is a full moon to pay attention to your feels and how your outward directed energy and actions are related to your internal emotions. The extra dose of full moon unexpected revelations is coming from the square with Uranus. This moon is likely to illuminate how you're relating to your own sense of security and how things may need to shift for them to really work for you as who you are and not how others or society expects you to be. The Leo moon and Mars/Chiron sextiles are bringing the dramatic flair, take a breath or a beat before you dig into addressing the conversations and situations it brings up.
